Public Construction 101

Come learn about how to work on public works construction jobsites. Featuring a construction training program coordinator, city officials, and construction workers.

Construction Careers advocates for policies that create opportunities for low-income communities of color in accessing quality middle class construction jobs in Los Angeles. "The Pipeline" program was created in summer 2012 to educate these communities about opportunities such as the Crenshaw/LAX rail line.

The Pipeline consists of public outreach, including job forums, informational booklets, and multimedia in order to connect disadvantaged communities to good construction jobs.
